

Company Assets & Information Systems Usage Policy

COMPANY ASSETS & INFORMATION SYSTEMS USAGE POLICY

Objective

To set forth guidelines and define the conditions under which an employee may use Company business assets and Information Systems, including but not limited to Company owned devices; Internet access; its private network(s); its vendors; suppliers and partner networks and its Email system or any other access point or connection resource, while conducting business on behalf of the Company.

Applicability

The policy is applicable to all employees of IK SPL.

All the employees are personally responsible for safeguarding and using Company Assets and Information Systems appropriately.

All Company policies and procedures apply to employees' conduct on the Internet, especially, but not exclusively, relating to: intellectual property, confidentiality, company information dissemination, standards of conduct, misuse of company resources, anti-harassment, and information and data security.

Violation of these policies could result in disciplinary and/or legal action leading up to and including termination of employment. Employees may also be held personally liable for damages caused by any violations of this policy. All employees are required to acknowledge receipt and confirm that they have understood and agree to abide by the rules hereunder.

Company Assets

- The Company makes available its various assets, hardware, software, services and computer network(s) in order to allow its employees access to resources to effectively execute their job functions and duties.
- The use of Company systems, including computers, printer/fax machines, and all forms of Internet/intranet access, is for company business and for authorized purposes only.
- Company assets should be safeguarded and used for Company business only, except for limited personal use that does not interfere with Company's business and is otherwise in compliance with all applicable Company policies.
- This includes protection of Company's physical assets, such as office facilities, furniture, equipment and supplies, information systems and other technology assets, intellectual property rights and confidential information.
- Any device or computer including, but not limited to, desk phones, cell phones, laptops, desktop computers, and data cards that the Company provides for employee use, should only be used for Company business. The Company owns the devices and the information in these devices.
- If an employee leaves the Company for any reason, the Company will require that the

iScholar Knowledge Services Pvt Ltd

employee return the equipment allocated to them on last day of work.

- Employee is solely responsible for safekeeping and maintenance of any equipment entrusted to them. If any item is lost or damaged due to negligence, cost of equipment will be recovered from the employee.
- Wherever applicable, the reimbursement of CUG mobile/data will be limited to the package authorized and subscribed to the employee.

Intellectual property

- The intellectual property rights of the Company are valuable assets and all employees are expected to protect them.
- Intellectual property includes, among other things, patents, trademarks and service marks, domain names, copyrights (including copyrights in software), design rights, database extraction rights, rights in know-how or other confidential information (sometimes called “trade secrets” or “proprietary information”) and rights under intellectual property agreements.
- Employees are required to understand and comply with all intellectual property laws applicable to their business activities. Any use of Company systems in violation of applicable intellectual property rights, such as the illegal or unauthorized duplication or distribution of internal communication, copyrighted materials, is strictly prohibited.

Confidential information

- Employees should use reasonable care to protect the confidentiality of all Company confidential information. It is the responsibility of employees to maintain the confidentiality of all internal communication, confidential information they receive or obtain access to in the capacity as an employee, manager or director of the Company.
- Confidential information includes, among other things, any nonpublic information concerning the Company, its operations, employees, financial condition or performance, prospects or information that may provide the Company with a competitive edge.
- Confidential information also includes any nonpublic information provided to the Company by a third party with the expectation that such information will be kept confidential and used solely for the purpose for which it was shared.
- Company’s confidential information may not be disclosed to anyone unless such disclosure is properly authorized.
- Confidential information of third parties is usually disclosed to the Company pursuant to nondisclosure agreements. These agreements generally restrict disclosure and use of the subject confidential information. Employees are required to comply with these contractual provisions, in addition to the Code provisions, with respect to all third party confidential information in their possession or control. Employees may not disclose, or induce any other employee to disclose, any former employer’s confidential information.
- When the employment or position with the Company ends, employees must return all confidential information to the Company.

Information systems – Computer, Email and Internet Usage

- The information systems of the Company, including computers, voicemail, e-mail and internet access, are to be used for proper purposes in a manner consistent with the Code and all applicable Company policies.
- If employees have access to Company information systems, they are responsible for taking the precautions necessary to prohibit unauthorized access to those systems, including protecting passwords and other means of entry.
- All computers, software and the data on the hard drives are the property of the Company.
- No software or hardware is to be installed on the computers unless approved and authorized. This includes screensavers, pictures, etc. The only screensavers that are approved are the ones already installed on your computer with the operating system.
- All documents, data files, etc. must be saved on drives other than C:\ drive. The IT team will not be responsible for retrieving data on the C:\ drive if there is a hardware failure.
- Employees have no right of personal privacy in any matter stored in, created, received, or sent over the Company's email system.
- The Company in its discretion as owner of the email system, reserves and may exercise the right to monitor, access, retrieve, and delete any matter stored in, created, received, or sent over the email system, for any reason and without the permission of any employee.
- The email system shall not be used to send (upload) or receive (download) copyrighted materials, trade secrets, proprietary financial information, or similar materials without prior authorization from management.
- Employees, if uncertain about whether certain information is copyrighted, proprietary, or otherwise inappropriate for transfer, should resolve all doubts in favor of not transferring the information and consult with their Reporting Manager.
- Emails sent via the company email system should not contain content that is deemed to be offensive. This includes, though is not restricted to, the use of vulgar or harassing language/images.
- Employees should routinely delete outdated or otherwise unnecessary emails and computer files. These deletions will help keep the system running smoothly and effectively, as well as minimize maintenance costs.
- Employees are reminded to be courteous to other users of the system and always to conduct themselves in a professional manner. Emails are sometimes misdirected or forwarded and may be viewed by persons other than the intended recipient.
- Employees should write email communications with greater care, judgment and responsibility.
- Company employees are expected to use the Internet responsibly and productively. Internet access is limited to job-related activities only and personal use is not permitted

iScholar Knowledge Services Pvt Ltd

- Job-related activities include research and educational tasks that may be found via the Internet that would help in an employee's role.
- All Internet data that is composed, transmitted and/or received by Company's computer systems is considered to belong to Company and is recognized as part of its official data. It is therefore subject to disclosure for legal reasons or to other appropriate third parties.
- The equipment, services and technology used to access the Internet are the property of Company and the company reserves the right to monitor Internet traffic and monitor and access data that is composed, sent or received through its online connections.
- All sites and downloads may be monitored and/or blocked by Company if they are deemed to be harmful and/or not productive to business.
- The installation of software such as instant messaging technology is strictly prohibited.
- Though some personal use of Company's information systems may be inevitable, such personal use should be kept to a reasonable minimum. Keep in mind that even personal data on Company information systems is subject to all Company policies. This means, for example, that Company information systems may not be used to send or forward content that breaches Company policy against discrimination and harassment, or any other applicable policy, or for any purpose that is misleading, dishonest or otherwise improper.
- It is generally not the intent of Company to monitor internet usage or messages on voicemail or e-mail systems. However, Company reserves the right to do so in appropriate circumstances.

Unacceptable use of the Company Assets and Information Systems by employees includes, but is not limited to:

- Accessing networks, servers, drives, folders, or files to which the employee has not been granted access or authorization from someone with the right to make such a grant
- Making unauthorized copies of Company files or other Company data
- Destroying, deleting, erasing, or concealing Company files or other Company data, or otherwise making such files or data unavailable or inaccessible to the Company or to other authorized users of Company systems
- Misrepresenting oneself or the Company
- Sending or posting discriminatory, harassing, or threatening messages or images on the Internet or via Company's email service
- Using computers to perpetrate any form of fraud, and/or software, film or music piracy
- Stealing, using, or disclosing someone else's password without authorization
- Downloading, copying or pirating software and electronic files that are copyrighted or without authorization
- Sharing confidential material, trade secrets, or proprietary information outside of the organization

iScholar Knowledge Services Pvt Ltd

- Hacking into unauthorized websites
- Sending or posting information that is defamatory to the company, its products/services, colleagues and/or customers
- Introducing malicious software onto the company network and/or jeopardizing the security of the organization's electronic communications systems
- Sending or posting chain letters, solicitations, or advertisements not related to business purposes or activities
- Passing off personal views as representing those of the organization
- Failing to log off any secure, controlled-access computer or other form of electronic data system to which you are assigned, if you leave such computer or system unattended;
- Using recreational games; and/or downloading games or other entertainment software, including wallpaper and screen savers, or to play games over the Internet.
- Defeating or attempting to defeat security restrictions on company systems and applications.

Social Media

- Employees are prohibited from sharing any confidential or protected information that belongs to or is about the Company. Employees are strongly encouraged not to share disparaging information that places Company or coworkers in an unfavorable light. The Company's reputation and brand should be protected by all employees. The lives and actions of coworkers should never be shared online.
- Do not access Social Media, create or maintain personal websites or web logs on Company time. Each employee is responsible for ensuring that blogging activity does not interfere with work. The content of web logs maintained by employees should not be purposefully offensive, obscene, defamatory, threatening, infringe on intellectual property rights, invade the privacy of anyone, contain illegal content, or be illegal or injurious to another person or the Company.
- No employee other than the designated spokesperson may speak on behalf of the Company.
- Do not post confidential or proprietary information related to Company in Social Media.
- Do not post the names of Company customers, clients, co-workers, vendors, or partners on Social Media.
- Do not use Company facilities to create or maintain a web log. The Company monitors its facilities to ensure compliance with this restriction.
- If an employee identifies himself/herself as a Company employee on Social Media, place a prominent disclaimer stating that they are only expressing their personal views and not those of the Company.

iScholar Knowledge Services Pvt Ltd

- All Company policies that regulate off-duty conduct apply to blogging activity including, but not limited to, policies related to illegal harassment, code of conduct, non-competition, protecting confidential and/or proprietary information.
- ❖ Employees are advised to contact their Reporting Manager/HR in case of any doubts or for any further clarifications on this policy.