

Employee Separation Policy

Objective

To set the guidelines to ensure that the employee separations are handled in a professional manner with minimal disruption to ongoing work functions and facilitate early settlement to the employees separating from services of the Company.

Applicability

The policy is applicable to all permanent employees of IKSPL.

Separation Policies & Procedures

- Employees who intend to separate will have to submit a Letter/Email of Resignation mentioning their intent of separating from the services of the Company to the Reporting Manager. Subsequently the same has to be sent by the Reporting Manager to the concerned Department Head and HR Manager for acceptance of resignation within three working days of receipt of the resignation letter.
- Upon receipt of written resignation advice from the employee, the HR manager will acknowledge the employee's resignation and final day of work.
- The resigned employee has to serve notice period as per the clause in the offer/confirmation letter. The decisions of serving the notice or waiver of the notice period can only be decided by the concerned Department Head and the HR Head.
- During the notice period, the presence of the employee on regular working hours is must. Any kind of absence/leave will not be entertained and will be treated as loss of pay, unless approved by the concerned Manager or HR Head.
- The last day actually worked would be considered as the last day of employment with the Company unless the notice period if any, is adjusted. This shall be at the sole discretion of the HR Head/Management.
- For processing the Final Settlement the copy of the resignation letter with comments of the Reporting Manager mentioning the relieving date needs to be sent to the HR Dept.
- HR must schedule an exit interview, typically to take place on employee's last working day or other day, as mutually agreed upon.
- The Company reserves the right to terminate/discharge an employee at any time due to non-performance, indiscipline, misconduct, absenteeism etc. The facts and circumstances of each case will determine what action up to and including termination of employment is appropriate. In some cases progressive discipline may be used, prior to termination, to correct a performance problem. However, cases of gross misconduct will result in immediate dismissal without prior use of progressive discipline. An employee whose employment is terminated and who may present a potential risk to the business operations of the Company will be directed to leave the Company immediately. Decisions to terminate employment should be made in consultation with Human Resources.

- An employee may be laid off by the Company because of changes in duties, organizational changes etc.
- The separating employee must return all Company property on last working day or at the time of discharge and obtain clearance from all the departments and submit to HR. Failure to return some items may result in deductions from Final Settlement.
- On receiving the intimation regarding the separation of employee, HR Dept. will put on hold that particular month's salary, expense claim or any other monetary payment for Company's security purpose. The amount on hold will be paid as Final Settlement after all recoveries along with the Relieving Letter.
- The HR Dept. along with the Finance Dept will verify the record of the separating employee to check the outstanding obligation to the Company. All the Company property under the employee's possession has to be recovered.
- When all the formalities by the separating employee are completed, HR Dept. will calculate the payments due to the separating employee as on the date of separation.
- Until and unless the separation formalities are completed by the employee and clearance obtained from all the departments, the Final Settlement cannot be processed and the Company will not issue the Relieving Letter and Service Certificate.
- An employee who resigns or is discharged will be paid through the last day of work, plus leave settlement as per Company policy, less outstanding loans, advances or other agreements the employee may have with the Company. The target date of Final Settlement of all dues will be 45 days from the date of last working day with Company.

NOTE: It is mandatory that all resigning employees should serve the notice period as mentioned in the offer letter. In exceptional cases, if the department head and the HR have mutually agreed on shortfall notice period, then it can be waived off. Otherwise, the employee has to work as per the clause of the notice period or pay compensation in lieu of notice as decided by the Management & HR Dept.
